IN THE HOUSE.

stirring Debate on the Civil Service Law.

CLEVELAND AND THE SENATE.

Are You in Good Health? There Must be Something the Matter With You.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Findlay, of Maryland, from the committee on civil service, heretofore reform, submitted a report on the resolution offered by Taubee, of Kentucky, directing the Secretary of the Treasury to inform the House by what authority the practice of permitting the employees in the department to appoint substitutes is allowed. The committee, in the report, says there can be no reason for questioning the good faith of the statement by the acting Secretary of the Treasury, that substitution is allowed when permanent employees are absent on account of sickness. Accepting this as a valid reason for the temporary appointment of substitutes, the committee asks to be discharged from further consideration of the subject.

Taubee thought the statement of the acting Secretary of the Treasury could be construed so as to mean that substitutes were appointed only when permanent employees were absent on account of sickness. Such statement, to his personal knowledge, would be unwarranted. The practice was an abuse of public power and an abuse of the civil service law. That law was a part of the law, it being conceded in sin and brought forth in iniquity. But while it was a bad law, the government was committed to it, and while it could not be repealed it could be amended and lived up to. In the matter of appointments at the time of the passage of the law, there were inequalities and the law itself prohibited the correction of these inequalities. The District of Columbia, out of 1,000 appointments, since the passage of the act, had been entitled to two and received twenty-four. The State of Kentucky, which has been entitled to thirty-three, received only seventeen. It was not fair.

Hillard, of New York, inquired whether the gentleman held that the President and Secretary of the Treasury had not enforced the law.

Taubee replied that he believed the President and the Secretary were earnestly trying to enforce it, but that the beneficiaries under them misled and imposed upon them so as to make it absolutely impossible for them to give a faithful execution to the law.

Cannon, of Illinois—Is there anything in the civil service law that prohibits the Secretary of the Treasury or the President from removing the chief clerks' appointment clerks, and every head of the bureau in that department? Taubee—There is not, but when the Democrats took possession of the executive branch of the government, the President announced his policy that while the civil service law should be carried out in its letter, its spirit should be aply to its officers. The President had different views with some of the most zealous leaders of the Democratic party on that point, yet it was his policy, and with few exceptions he has carried it out—carried it out more fully than any of his Republican predecessors.

Cannon—You are satisfied these abuses arise from the hands of the bureau? If this is true, is the President incompetent or knavish, in refusing to remove them? Taubee—Neither; the President has been occupied for the past two or three months in trying to hold the Senate in check to keep them from denouncing his character wrongfully, because he exercises a discretion the Constitution confers upon him.

Cannon—As I understand the controversy, the gentleman refers to it is the controversy between the Senate and the President as to whether the President shall profess to do one thing to please one portion of his party, and then turn around and do another to please gentlemen like my friend from Kentucky.

Are you in good health? queried Taubee. "I think something must be the matter with you."

"I leave it to the country to say whether the gentleman is sick or well," replied Cannon.

Taubee did not wish to be understood as making an assault on the President or Secretary of the Treasury, because they had enough to contend with in their controversy with the Senate, but these abuses ought to be corrected. The Democratic party, with its doctrines and practices, stood as far above the Republican party as the stars above the deep caverns of the ocean. But if his party did wrong, and abuses grew upon the Democratic administration, he would call attention to them.

Findlay moved to lay the resolution on the table. The vote upon this motion was so close, that some excitement and interest was manifested as the clerk proceeded to call the roll, and at the conclusion of the call, several changes were made, but reversing the result a number of times as finally announced the vote stood—ayes 114, nays 113. So the resolution was tabled.

Mr. of North Carolina, from the committee on foreign affairs, reported a bill amendatory of the Chinese immigration act; also providing for indemnity to certain Chinese for losses sustained within the jurisdiction of the United States—Committee of the whole.

Mr. of New Jersey, from the committee on naval affairs, reported a bill authorizing the construction of dry docks at certain navy yards. Committee of the whole.

The Oklahoma bill was called up and its provisions were explained by Hill, of Ohio.

Baker, of New York, argued against the bill and pending further discussion.

Morrison, of Illinois, from the committee on rules, submitted reports providing that after May 10th the House shall meet at 11 a.m. and adjourn at 5 p.m., and making it in order when the general pension bills are under consideration to amend the same so as to provide for taxation for the payment therefor. Laid over under the rules. House adjourned.

German Gossip.

Berlin, May 1.—Emperor William is at present enjoying robust health. He reviewed the guards at Potsdam, today. It is now admitted that the illness from which Count Herbert Bismarck is suffering was so serious for several days that his life was despaired of. He is now safely past the crisis and his recovery is all but assured. His father, the Chancellor, is jubilant over his improved condition.

Princess Victoria, daughter of the Crown Prince Frederick William, will not accompany her mother, Princess Victoria, during the latter's journey to England to visit her mother, Queen Victoria. There is an official reason for this abstention by the Princess, it being stated that the German government desires to dispel the rumors that Princess Victoria is betrothed to Prince Alexander of Bulgaria. Crown Prince Frederick William and family are now at Hamburg, to which place his wife, the Princess Victoria, will return in a fortnight, when the entire family will come to Berlin in order to be here on the 21st of May to attend to the spring parade of the guards.

Prince Bismarck has introduced a bill into the Bundesrath to increase the duties on spirits. The law to suppress "Polandism" abolishes Polish regiments in the German army. Under its provisions Polish recruits will hereafter be drafted into different Prussian regiments, the idea being that it will be easier to Germanize their Polish soldiers by this method, than if they are permitted to remain in organizations by themselves. This is the course followed in the case of the Alsatian recruits and it has proved successful.

The deficit in the revenue of the Prussian State railways for the past fiscal year is 25,000,000 marks under the estimates, owing to the general depression. It is expected that the deficiency for 1886 will be even greater. Ludwig Richter's art collection will be sold at auction at Dresden in two weeks.

THE CANNON BOYS.

Frank J. Shoulders the Blame—The Others are Discharged.

Those who assembled at the courtroom yesterday morning with the expectation of hearing something new in connection with the trial of the Cannon boys for conspiracy to commit battery upon W. H. Dickson, were doomed to disappointment.

When Frank Cannon was asked what plea he had to make, he promptly answered "Guilty," and asked permission to make a statement. Judge Kane granted the request, when Frank said in relation to the charge made against him and his co-defendants, Angus M. Cannon, Jr., and Hugh Cannon, he wished to state that he alone was guilty. Hugh Cannon, a boy of 15, had already been punished, and was now practically an exile. Angus M. Cannon, so far as he knew, had nothing to do with the affair. Angus was not in the vicinity at the time; and for these reasons he asked that the charges against these two defendants be dismissed. He wished to take the entire responsibility himself.

In reply to this, Mr. Varian stated that as to the indictment for conspiracy and the charges of battery against Angus and Hugh Cannon he would ask that they be dismissed. It was not the desire of the prosecution, he said, to harass and oppress the young men. They had been indicted by the grand jury because it was thought desirable to impress upon the minds of these and all other young men that such deeds as the one in this case would not be passed by in silence. He believed this object had been attained.

The charges were, therefore, dismissed as requested, and sentence in the case of Frank Cannon will be pronounced on Monday, May 10th.

A LUCKY HAUL.

Nightwatchman Watson Seeks Three of a Kind.

At 11 o'clock last night as Nightwatchman Watson entered the west end of the alley north of Barton & Co.'s store he ran against three fellows, one of whom came towards him. He asked him what he wanted and the fellow gave an evasive reply, when Mr. Watson grabbed him, and placed him under arrest. The other two then vanished, and the officer discovered on the ground near him a quantity of clothing, which afterwards proved to have been stolen from Alexander's store on Main Street. The prisoner was escorted to the hall, and in company with the police, Watson returned to the store, when it was discovered that the fellows had broken out a couple of panes of glass in a rear window, through which they had pulled out the goods found in the alley—ten pairs of pants and eleven vests. Shortly afterwards Mr. Watson noticed a couple of fellows passing the store, and he followed and arrested them, as he was certain that at least one was among those he met in the alley. Both were taken to jail, and will have a hearing tomorrow. Their names were not learned last evening.

A BRILLIANT SUCCESS.

The Children's Ball at the Theatre—Other Social Notes.

The Children's Ball.

It was, of course, impossible that the children's ball given at the Theatre yesterday afternoon should have been anything else than an unqualified success, especially when we remember the enjoyable experiences of years past. No one, however, was scarcely prepared for the crush of diminutive humanity that came together within the walls of the Theatre yesterday. A view from the rear of the stage during the progress of the tableaux, etc., revealed the large dancing floor filled almost to its entire capacity, the parquet circle crowded back to the walls, the first and second circles uncomfortably filled, and a large number of the little ones and their escorts occupying the space usually reserved for the gods. Viewed from this point of vantage it was a brilliant and happy scene, the children, from mere toddlers up to 18 years, being decked out in their ball attire, and not a few costumes were remarkable for their beauty and elegance. There were some waltzes in the neighborhood of 1,200 happy bright-faced children crowded into the space mentioned, who crowded, laughed and applauded at the many novelties presented for their amusements. After dancing for a couple of hours, at 4 o'clock the stage was cleared, and the curtain rang up on the tableaux of Blue Beard and Fatima, the former (Fred Gleason) looking as heroic and bloodthirsty as any one could desire, and the latter (Miss Winnie Clawson) pretty enough to have melted even a harder heart than that of individual supposed to have had. The next scene represented the busy chamber, with the heads of five of Blue Beard's wives hanging on the wall of the room. These five beautiful faces and heads of hair were owned by Misses Maud Merrill, Vilate Kimball, Lattie Young, Ada Croxall, and Winnie Kimball, and presented a picture that drew forth rounds of applause, and murmurs of appreciation. Then followed the spectacle of the living woman minus a body—an illusion that was so real as to be almost startling and over which the little ones went wild with delight. The elephant proved to be as amusing as ever, also, but the crowning part of the entertainment was the Marine Drill, enlarged and improved from its first presentation with the O. K. G. troupe. Under the command of Miss Tessie Clawson, the 25 little misses, who presented one of the cutest spectacles one could possibly imagine, in their blue-trimmed white suits, went through a series of evolutions with such precision and with so strict a regard for time, as to cause a hearty encore from the hundreds of diminutive spectators, while the children of a larger growth joined heartily in the applause. A description of the scene is impossible, and we can but compliment Fred Gleason on the success the little ones have attained under his instruction. The shadow pantomime was more laughable than before, the light-rope business in which the elephant took a prominent part being especially unique. Altogether, as we said before, it was a grand success, and Saturday will be a red letter day in the history of hundreds who were present. The management of the affair was in the hands of Mr. H. B. Clawson, and he was ably assisted by a small army of lieutenants.

The ball in the evening drew out a large number of young people, who were even more demonstrative at the tableaux and drill than were the little ones during the afternoon, the Marine Drill coming in for the largest share of attention.

Attained his Majority.

A very pleasant party was given at the residence of Mr. John McDonald Sen., Friday evening, April 30th, 1886, in honor of Mr. James McDonald, who now tells his father that there is another man in the house. The evening was spent in dancing, singing and choice selections on the piano by Misses Grace and Carrie McDonald, of San Bernardino, California. Late in the evening, a very sumptuous repast was spread and all felt that it was good to be there. The names of those present were: Mrs. Wm. McDonald and daughters, San Bernardino, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald, Jr.; Miss Nettie Raleigh, Miss Jennie Hawley, Miss L. Angel, Miss Lute Whitney, Miss Lol Whitney, Miss Mamie Clawson, Miss Minnie Rowe, Miss Annie Rowe, Miss Annie Oliver, Miss Alice Rummel, Miss R. Rummel, Miss Lizzie Groesbeck, Messrs. Charles Madsen, Frank Aubrey, Frank Margetts, Fred. Clawson, Sam. Donaldson, Will Margetts, Will Pyper, P. Brooks, H. Margetts, Frank Beattie.

Progressive Euchre.

The Kimball residence on Main Street was the scene of a brilliant and enjoyable progressive euchre party during the week. It was the first occasion of the kind after Lent, and was in every way a decided success.

The Arbutus Club.

The above well known social organization gave one of its enjoyable hops in the Eagle Gate Hall on Tuesday evening. It was a thoroughly enjoyable affair.

WHEEL NOTES.

At the recent Stanley show in London there were on exhibition 337 machines.

St. John, Mich., has a bi-cycle band of thirteen men, who play while riding their wheels.

BARNES & DAVIS received a 32-inch, full enameled Expert Columbia last week, for Mr. Jeremy.

EVANS & SPENCER sold during the week, an elegant 48-inch Victor to Mr. Charles Schure, of Caldwell, Idaho.

OWING to the numerous orders for Star bicycles now looked at the manufactory, those ordered over a month ago have not yet been shipped.

Joe Wood is to have a 33 Columbia light roadster for future riding. He will no doubt show somebody the dust on the race track this summer.

THERE are already orders for nearly a dozen bicycles for persons in this city and surrounding settlements, in the hands of the manufacturers.

PROF. MALTBY is expected in this city the coming week, and will no doubt give one or two of his excellent exhibitions. Everybody should see him.

THE HOME Trainer subscription list is growing every day, but some of the boys have not yet been heard from. Brace up, now and let's have it here this season. Only a dollar for two years' sub. to the Wheelman's Gazette, and fifty names will bring the training machine.

AT THE regular monthly meeting of the Salt Lake Bicycle Club it was decided to hold the first of the season's races on Decoration day, at the race track on Washington Square. Several of the flyers are already on the alert to capture one of the elegant medals to be given.

VERY few persons realize the immense trade that is being done throughout the world by the bi and tricycle manufacturers. It is predicted that in the United States alone the sale this year will much exceed ten thousand. This number, in addition to those already in use, will swell the ranks of cyclists to something monumental.

ALL THE most important makes of bi and tricycles are now represented in this city, and one can choose from the following: Columbia, Star, Harvard, etc., Barnes and Davis, Royal Mail, T. S. Angell, Jr., Northern and Northern Safety, Natras Bros., Victor, Rudge, American Champion, Ideal and American Safety, also boys' and girls' bi and tricycles, Evans & Spencer.

EVANS & SPENCER received last week, one of the bi-cycles known as the American Safety, the first one of the kind ever brought here. It is an elegant little machine, and pleases all who have tried it. The large wheel is but 42 inches, but so arranged to be ridden by a person who would ordinarily ride a 54 inch bicycle. It is intended for business men who wish a mount safer than the ordinary crank machine, and persons who care more for general usefulness than speed. Go and see it.

A VERY pleasant visit, and several delightful spins a wheel were enjoyed during the past week by members of the bi club and Mr. A. G. Moesman of the Kings Co. (Brooklyn, N. Y.) wheelmen. This club is one of the most noted in the country, having a membership of nearly 200, including thirty-eight men, who ride tricycles or tandem tri's with husband, lover, brother or friend. Mr. Moesman is a genial gentleman and made warm friends of all who met him.

READER, do you realize what an important factor of our domestic economy the cycle is becoming? Do you know there are not less than 20,000 now flying over the face of the United States, and that the number will be doubled this year? Do you know that persons use them in the pursuit of nearly every occupation known? That Thomas Stevens is now making a journey around the world on one? That a person having much running to do can save from one-third to one-half his time by the use of a cycle, and if time is money, he is actually making money while riding—to say nothing of the healthfulness and keep-your-liver-in-good-order-ness and not-have-doctors-bills-to-pay-ness of the thing? Every clerk, physician, bookkeeper, lawyer and in fact any occupation of a sedentary nature, will find new life and health in the use of the wheel. Ride—exercise your muscles—expand your lungs—breathe the fresh air and bathe in the glorious sunshine, ye confirmed dyspeptics, and you will say that life is still worth living!
